Equine Influenza Notice

Having consulted and discussed the issue at length with our Honorary Vets, Cardigan County Agricultural Society strongly advise that owners/breeder/loanee of all equines (other than foals under 6 months old) who intend attending Cardigan County Agriculture Show 2019, have their exhibits properly vaccinated against Equine Influenza. We would advise that you consult your own veterinary practice for guidance and advice.

The Cardigan County Agricultural Society strongly advise that all equines are vaccinated accordingly to protect their own equine and that any exhibit displaying any symptoms or signs of ill-health do not enter the Showground. Please only attend the Show if your equine is fit and well on the morning of the Show, prior to departure.

We wish to remind all Exhibitors that they attend Cardigan County Agricultural Society at their own risk and should give consideration to all when assessing your equine to be fit to attend.

Please note that Cardigan County Agricultural Society are monitoring the situation and should there be any change to the above, we will announce the same via our website and social media.
